

Skatelite ramp surfacing is most often the top layer of a wooden skateboard ramp. Quite often this is the first time people have had a large shipment like this arrive at their home from such a long distance away. The sheets of ramp surfacing are about 55 lbs each and are banded on 4x8 pallets and shipped on large carriers such as USF, TGR or Oak Harbor Freight- not UPS.

There are two types of delivery locations, residential and business. A RESIDENTIAL DELIVERY is a little more expensive because the surfacing is delivered on a smaller truck that can weave through residential areas. The driver will typically call the contact person via cell phone to arrange a delivery time the day before. Please be aware that the delivery driver is not responsible for offloading so be ready to snap the metal bands and skid off the sheets and pallet. If you want a lift gate (extra charge) or have a difficult driveway for a delivery truck, please let us know. A BUSINESS DELIVERY is shipped on a larger semi truck that navigates through business routes and delivers to businesses with a loading dock or forklift. Quite often, residents have a friend who owns a business with a loading dock or forklift and will arrange a delivery there and then the pick up the sheets on their own time to save a little cash.
